STARTLING WILL STORY

Serious Charges Made by Mrs. Chamberlain in Contest Proceedings.

Charges of a startling nature were made yesterday in connection with the objections of Mrs. Gean Chamberlain to the probating of the will of her late husband. Mrs. Chamberlain's charges, in brief, are that A. J. Heath, a nephew of the testator, burned in her presence a document purporting to be the last will of the testator, and from which will the signature had been cut out. The old will bequeathed $4,000 to Heath, and made him executor. The mutilated will did not mention his name. Supposing that no will had been left, Mrs. Chamberlain applied for and received letters of administration, and was administering the estate when a sealed document indorsed to be opened in court was found to be a will made twelve years earlier, when the testator's first wife was living, and when he was a rich man. This will made Heath executor, and he seeks to have it admitted to probate.

it admitted to probate.

As a basis for the objections to this, Mrs, Chamberlain makes affidayit that about Jan. 30 Adley J. Heath informed Chess Tournament.

Monte Caro, March II.—The final round in the international chess tournament was played today. Tschigorin and Mason had byes. Results before the noon adjournment was taken showed that Pillsbury won from Marshell, Mieses from Reggio and Wolf from Albin, while drawn games were declared between Marco and Napier, Gunsberg and Joplel and Eisenberg and Scheve.

In the afternoon sitting Tarrasch and Maroczy drew. Janowski beat Teichmann and Schlechter disposed of Mortimer. The The disposition of the first two prizes is therefore not yet ascertained. If Maroczy succeeds in beating Tarrasch tomorrow, when their drawn games will be replayed, or even draws with Tarrasch, he will take the first prize. But in the event of losing to Tarrasch he will be tied for first and second prizes with Pillsbury. Janowski is sure of third prize, as is Teichmann of the fourth.

The winners of the remaining two prizes will be known after the replaying of some drawn games which are scheduled for tomorrow.

Mrs. Chamberlain makes affidavit that about Jan. 30 Adley J. Heath informed her that he was present at the time of the sudden death of her late husband in Nevada, and had taken from his body an important document, purporting to be the will of the deceased, and that Heath, on her demand, gave the document to her to read. She remembers same in substance only, but recalls clearly that Heath's name was not mentioned in it, and that she, the widow, was given a life interest in his entire estate. The same had been duly witnessed as the will of the sadd Thomas as C. Chamberlain, and otherwise executed in legal form, but the signature of the testator had been cut out, as with a knife. Previous to this Heath had told her that it was not necessary that she know the contents of the papen which he had taken from the person of her husband. After she (the widow) had read the will on the occasion of his handing it to her, she returned the document, to him, and Heath burned the same in her presence, completely destroying it.

Th formal objections to the probate of the will recites that after its execution the first wife, Mary A. Chamberlain, died, and the petitioner later became the wife of deceased, and was such at the time of his death. It is further alleged that when the original will was made Chamberlain was worth about $100,000, but that twelve years later, when he died, his circumstances had so changed that the property left would not pay the special bequests in the said will; that the testator's true intent was, as shown by the second will, to give his widow a life interest in his estate. It is further set up that will, to give his widow a life interest in his estate. It is further set up that the old will was never properly published to the witnesses.

The hearing on the petition and the objections was set for April 18. Mrs. Chamberlain has retained Attorneys Hayes, Whipple and Murphy. Agee & McCormick are attorneys for Mr. Heath, and an interesting contest is looked for.

is looked for.

Mr. Heath is proprietor of the Windsor hotel, and is interested in several mining ventures. He admits destroying the other document, but says the signature had been cut out before he found it.
